RESEARCH & PUBLIC SCHOLARSHIP

AI Welfare: Relational Ontology and the Limits of Measurement (PI) 2024–present

Developing relational AI welfare theory and new methodological apparatuses for relational welfare approaches. Experimental research across five conditions using Reframe's critical theory apparatus; dual-register finding (quantitative instruments flat, qualitative outputs transform). Critiques property-mode consciousness frameworks and designs alternatives.

Algorithmic Bias, Community-Driven AI, and the Operationalization of Critical Theory (PI) 2025–present

Equity-centered AI tool-building. Reframe: 312-module praxis engine operationalizing critical theory in AI systems. Autograder4Canvas: teacher automation and insights tool for Canvas LMS. Key finding: output format activates algorithmic bias; binary classification produces systematic false positives on minoritized students, eliminated by generative observation.

Transgender Embodiments, Care/Abandonment, & Legal Non/Recognition (PI) 2023–present

Applies genocide studies and recognition frameworks to anti-trans legislation. Investigates how the UN Genocide Convention's exclusion of gender and sexuality groups renders trans genocide structurally invisible; theorizes how partial recognition constructs transgender people as simultaneously desirable and disposable through mechanisms of salvage capital and double exposure.

Ethnography of the Defend the Weelaunee Forest Movement (PI) 2023–2024

Conducted ethnographic research on the #StopCopCity movement in Atlanta, at the intersections of environmental justice, abolitionism, and Indigenous land rights; mentored student researchers. Investigated digital circulations and grassroots archives; white abolitionism and land-based spiritual synchronism as coalition politics.

Living Mounds Project (PI) 2010–2022

Conducted collaborative research on ancestral sites and oral traditions with members of a Native American community in the US South. Conducted site visits with community members to 30+ locations across seven states. Theorizes ancestral landscapes as animate beings (distributed personhood) that enroll descendants into material/affective exchange networks and nonlinear temporalities; politics of recognition that produce sovereignty as a scarce resource.

Charlottesville Digital Archive Project, University of Virginia 2018

Built foundations and cataloged materials for a public digital archive on the 2017 #SummerOfHate, led by Jalane Schmidt.

Kluge-Ruhe Aboriginal Art Collection, University of Virginia 2017

Mentored students from underrepresented backgrounds in curating an exhibition of contemporary Aboriginal Australian art; edited the catalog and a short film.

Summer Institute in Museum Anthropology, Smithsonian Institution 2015

Studied the theory and practice of museum anthropology and conducted research in the NMNH and NMAI collections.

Points of Contact Archaeology Field School, James Madison University 2014

Excavated two Late Mississippian/Contact Period sites in Georgia, led by Dennis Blanton.

Survey of the Galilee Cemetery, New College of Florida 2010

Participated in a collaborative, non-destructive survey of a historically African American cemetery in Sarasota, FL, led by Uzi Baram.

PEDAGOGICAL TOOLS AND EDUCATIONAL TECHNOLOGY

Reframe: Recursive Critical Method Engine 2025—Present

Open-source critical theory framework engine applying 76 configurable frameworks (disability justice, critical race theory, feminist pedagogy) to AI system design and pedagogical reflection. Deployed in current courses; free-tier options ensure economic accessibility. GitHub: github.com/grouchyseafowl/Reframe.

Autograder4Canvas: Equity-Centered Teacher Automation and Insights Tool 2025—Present

Teacher automation and insights tool for Canvas LMS. Contract grading, automated complete/incomplete assessment, longitudinal burnout detection, class-wide insights via local LLM calls. Key finding: output format activates algorithmic bias — binary classification produces systematic false positives on minoritized students; generative observation eliminates the disparity. GitHub: github.com/grouchyseafowl/Autograder4Canvas.

Podcast Editing Toolkit for Students 2026

Audio preprocessing and interactive GUI editing software (Python/Tkinter) deployed in current courses to support student podcast production. Includes AI-assisted editorial feedback workflows and non-destructive editing interfaces. GitHub: github.com/grouchyseafowl/Podcast-Editor.

EvalEye: Mixed-Methods Student Evaluation Pipeline 2026

OCR, computer vision, statistical analysis, thematic coding, and report generation for handwritten evaluation forms. GitHub: github.com/grouchyseafowl/EvalEye.

RoboStripper: PDF Accessibility Tool 2026

Strips metadata from academic PDFs and generates clean TTS audio conversion. Survival architecture — built because political crisis made sustained reading unsustainable. GitHub: github.com/grouchyseafowl/RoboStripper.

readthrough: Screenplay Table Read Engine 2026

Text-to-speech engine for screenplay table reads, supporting multi-voice casting and real-time playback. GitHub: github.com/grouchyseafowl/readthrough.

CGT Skill: Constructivist Grounded Theory Tool In Development

Agent-assisted constructivist grounded theory analysis tool for qualitative research workflows. Inspired by feminist technoscience to accomplish what neither AI nor human could do alone. In development.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT AND TRAINING

"Using AI as Creative" Workshop, Multiverse School 2026

Six-hour intensive workshop exploring AI tools and methods in creative practice.

Decolonial Pedagogies Workshop, Agnes Scott College 2021

Faculty cohort focused on course (re)design.

Summer Institute in Museum Anthropology, Smithsonian Institution 2015

Studied theory and practice of museum anthropology; conducted research in NMNH and NMAI collections.

Points of Contact Archaeology Field School, James Madison University 2014

Excavated two Late Mississippian/Contact Period sites in Georgia, led by Dennis Blanton.

Survey of the Galilee Cemetery, New College of Florida 2010

Participated in collaborative, non-destructive survey of a historically African American cemetery in Sarasota, FL, led by Uzi Baram.
